

To the FCC commissioners,

The FCC was created to serve the public interest with respect to the media. De-regulation of the media by loosening ownership rules does not serve that interest, it only allows further concentration, and hence control of what we read, see, and hear. The commission should not further deregulate the media, but instead should examine ways that an increasing diversity of viewpoints can be fostered.

Sincerely,
Jon Barrows